6TH Annual Lambda Literary Awards Winners Named

National publications designated 1993 as "the year of the queer" and gays and lesbians certainly made their mark on the literary world this year. Two of this year's Lambda Literary Award winners took their rightful place in the Establishment: Edmund White's definitive Biography/Autobiography winner, Genet, which won the National Book Critics Circle Award for Best Biography, and Tony Kushner's Drama winner, the Broadway smash Angels in America, which won both a Pulitzer and a Tony.

The other winners of this year's Lambda Literary Awards have made their marks in different ways; the late Randy Shilts' above-and-beyond the call of duty research for Conduct Unbecoming, winner of the Gay Men's Studies category, contributed practically the only facts to the emotional national debate on gays and lesbians in the military. Similarly, Elizabeth Kennedy's and Madeline Davis' Lesbian Studies winner, Boots of Leather, Slippers of Gold, a remarkable look into working-class lesbian life in Buffalo, New York, was a 14 year labor of love that demonstrated we are truly everywhere. Mystery and Science Fiction/Fantasy winners Divine Victim, Catilina's Riddle, and The Fifth

Sacred Thing were all published by large, mainstream presses; perhaps "crossover" is possible after all. The Lesbian and Gay Anthologies winner, The Lesbian and Gay Studies Reader, is proof of the inroads we are making within the walls of academe. The winner of the Lesbian Biography/Autobiography award, Marguerite Yourcenar, is the story of the first woman to breach that bastion of male privilege, the Academie Française.

Both fiction winners already inhabit the literary mainstream. Lesbian winner Jeanette Winterson's Written on the Body, with its genderless narrator, once again asks "What is lesbian fiction?" Joseph Hansen has long been a mainstay in the mystery world; his Living Upstairs is a beautiful evocative look at gay life in Hollywood's artistic and radical political world out of which the modern gay movement emerged.

Something of an institution in her own right, the late Audre Lorde has captured the Lesbian Poetry Award for the second year in a row, reminding us once again how much her strong presence is missed. We may have to retire the gay and lesbian humor award: this is the third time Alison Bechdel's Dykes to Watch Out For series has

A Harvest of Old Favorites and New Voices This Season at Lambda Rising

This season's author appearances at Lambda Rising feature old favorites as well as new names. We hope that all our readers in the Washington, DC area can visit our stores for these events and meet your favorite authors!

Thursday, August 11, Elliot Tiber will visit Lambda Rising/DC from 6 until 7 p.m. to read from and sign his book, Knock on Woodstock. This is the uproarious, uncensored story of the first Woodstock festival, the gay man who made it happen, and how he earned his ticket to freedom. This one is not to be missed!

Tuesday, September 13, Ned Rorem visits Lambda Rising/DC from 6 until 7 p.m. to read from and sign Knowing When to Stop. Going beyond the confines of his diaries, Rorem has written a memoir of remarkable insight and unflinching candor. The book is filled with tales and anecdotes of such outstanding personalities as Bernstein, Martha Graham, T. Williams, Capote, Bowles and countless others. His writing has all the gossipy shock value of Warhol's diaries and the self-revelatory frankness of Nin.

Wednesday, September 21, local DC author Mark Merlis visits Lambda Rising/DC from 6 until 7 p.m. to read from and sign his first novel, American Studies. This is the story of a man lying in a hospital after being beaten by a hustler, comparing his own life to that of his ill-fated friend who was driven to suicide during the McCarthy era.

Friday, October 21, Edmund White returns to Lambda Rising/DC to discuss and sign won our judges' hearts. And Hilary Mullins, whose The Cat Came Back was chosen this year's Children's/ Young Adult winner, breathes fresh life into a community institution, the story of a young woman's struggle with her sexuality.

James Schuyler's Collected Poems memorializes the New York urban gay male experience while Michael Klein's 1990, co-winner of the Gay Men's Poetry award, is a spiritual look at the healing power of poetry. Both of this year's Small Press Book Award winners, Stone Butch Blues and Sojourner open doors to worlds previously left virtually unexplored. Run away hit Stone Butch Blues broke the silence surrounding gender roles within lesbian life; Sojourner uncovers the face of AIDS in the black gay community, and reveals both agony and courage.

In selecting A Star Bright Lie, Coleman Dowell's sexy, poignant posthumous memoir of his career as a composer in New York in the early fifties, the Editor's Choice Award honors a book, a career, and a relationship spanning forty years. And in the 25th anniversary of Stonewall, it is altogether fitting that the Publisher's Service Award honors St. Martin's Press senior editor Michael Denneny, who, in creating and developing the Stonewall Inn Editions, has been a leader in the mainstream press's entry into gay and lesbian literature. And here to get you started is a story sent in by Pat, one of our part time sales staff in the Washington, DC store:

I had only been working as part of the floor staff at Lambda Rising for a few weeks, but had already survived ice and snow storms; a city hall ordered state of emergency that ordered all D.C. businesses closed and, one or two of the slowest sales days back to back with a couple of gay and lesbian shopping frenzies that darn near set records for non-March-on-Washington days.

During one of the lulls between the evening rush hour and the commencement of evening cruise shopping, two phone lines rang almost simultaneously. Bill answered one call and I picked up the other. My caller was a D.C. resident who found himself facing the pleasure of spending a lonesome evening in Hampton, Virginia. His question, "What is there to do in Hampton? Are there any bars or restaurants where I can be with members of the community?" The Lambda Rising floor staff likes to appear to be veritable fountains of knowledge, so, keeping with tradition, I put the caller on hold and bolted for a Damron Guide.

Great balls of fire! I had known we were low on Damron's, but suddenly we were completely OUT of them! I noticed Bill had also put his caller on hold as I moaned something like, "Great - some poor guy stranded in Hampton, Virginia is going to be bored to death." Bill wheeled around and said, "Did you pick up on my caller?" In the meantime, a shopper nearby said, "What did you want to know about Hampton, Virginia? I live there, can I help you?"

As things turned out, both incoming calls were from travelers spending the night in Hampton and seeking information on what-to-do-where. Our friendly helpful shopper talked to both callers in turn.

Where but at Lambda Rising would you find a situation where members of the Gay and Lesbian community would call while away from home to find out what to do in a strange (?) city and would also find a resident of that city shopping in the store to provide the requested information? It truly is a small but diverse world! A

This season was the busiest we've seen in the gay and lesbian book industry, and this issue of the News is filled with almost 400 new and re-released book titles! The highlights for this season include John Boswell's controversial new book, Same Sex Unions in Premodern Europe (page 3). This is the book that's gotten all the television coverage and had a starring role in the comic strip "Doonesbury." You've heard all about it everywhere, and now you can read this best-seller for yourself.

Dorothy Allison returns with a new book of essays, Skin: Writing About Sex,

Class, and Literature (page 7) and Patricia Nell Warren returns with her long-awaited sequel to The Front Runner on page 4: Harlan's Race. This book is already selling out in the stores and looks to be one of our biggest sellers of the season.

Thinking about relocating or changing jobs? Pick up The 100 Best Companies for Gay Men and Lesbians on page 10. This book gives the low-down on which companies have gay-friendly hiring and employment policies. And if you're looking for the best gay-friendly college or university, check out The Gay, Lesbian and Bisexual Student's Guide to Colleges, Universities and Graduate Schools on the same page.

his new book of essays, The Burning Library. Beginning with a treatise on the centrality of friendship in gay life, he offers a discerning chronicle of the changes in gay life and culture from the late sixties to the present day.

Tuesday, October 25, Alan Hollinghurst visits Lambda Rising/DC to read from and sign his new novel, The Folding Star. This is the story of a young man in search of a new life - traveling to Europe to teach english, but almost falling in love with one of his pupils. The book is at once an exhilarating comedy of infatuation and desire, and a gripping mystery that is not resolved until the very end.

All readings at Lambda Rising are open to the public and refreshments are served. Our mail order customers can reserve autographed copies by calling at least 24 hours before the signing at 1-800-621-6969. A

Linda Dowling

Offers the first detailed account of Oxford Hellenism,
the Victorian literary movement homosexuality emerged as

APOCALYPTIC OVERTURES

SEXUAL POLITICS AND THE
SENSE OF AN ENDING
Richard Dellamora

From the trials of Wilde in 1895 to the Republican conventional in 1992, the ends of centuries have been characterized by fears of sexual revolt and an apocalyptic anxiety that the end is near. Here the author examines work from then until now to demonstrate how apocalyptic narrative has been used to constitute sexual minorities. Working from a basis in contemporary theory from Derrida and Foucault, he looks a number of endings
linking late 19th century writers with Forster at the end of the century, but also with Cronenberg's adaptation of Burrough's Naked Lunch and AIDS fiction by Ed White and Alan Hollinghurst.
